What does college involve for most of us? Well, besides the academic life, we make lifetime friends. The big welcome at Mac involves getting to know roommates, neighbors, classmates, and teachers. Many social events are planned at the beginning of the year, including a Welcome Back to Mac Party and a dance so we all learn each other's faces. After one is acquainted with many types of people, good friends will be the ones to stick with each other through thick and thin. Here at Mac, your friends become your family.

1. A group of Rutledge 3rd "freshies" — Connie Chism, Becky Rackmyer, Lori Gilkey, Jill Anzelmo and Amy Henninger — enjoy a beautifull fall day.
2. "Anyone want a pretzel?" seems to be on the faces of Beth Parker, Martha James and Todd Stephens.
3. Sidewalk chatter (far right) occupies Vicky Houser, Dr. Richard Freiburg and Vic Wildenradt as the autumn sunshine lends a colorful campus backdrop.

1. Freshman girls and their big sisters join in a song of unity after being "tied".
2, 3, & 4. Big sistes, Sheryl Piper, Kim Lestina, and Belinda Heintz, "tie" their little sisters, Christine Lasser, Kimberly Bell, and Mary Cowen.

A big part of the welcome that MacMurray extends each fall to new students revolves around tradition.

The Green Ribbon ceremony has been an annual occurrence since 1928. Freshmen women have a green ribbon tied around the neck by a big sister, and are instructed to wear the ribbon for four days. The highly visible ribbon signifies that eh student is being initiated as a MacMurray Woman.

The feeling of moving in and getting acquainted is yet another activity that builds bonds of friendship between freshmen and upperclassmen. Mac's small size also enables students to get to know one another much more quickly. One of the fall activities that brought students together for a common experience is shown in the middle photo where Jane Hall residents gather to dedicate a new crosswalk that they all worked on.

5. Alexandra Murdock gets a helping hand moving in.
6. The residents of Jane Hall and Mrs. Stephens initiate the new side walk.
7. Lisa Bruce and Bryan Tate helping a freshman get settled in.

Student life on the campus of MacMurray is definitely a unique life. Among the organizations, the flourishing groups are Holy Fools and Campus Activities Board. The IM games, especially football and volleyball, are very popular and bring about large audiences.

Even though extra curricular activities are fun, Mac students must get serious and study (well, most Mac Students). J-Term and Final Exam Week are when students "burn the midnight oil". Freshmen had a good dose of sleepless nights when they practiced procrastination and ended up walking to class like zombies the next day. Popcorn for brain food and hot pots that boil continuously for coffee lend a hand to getting those papers finished. On nights when no immediate assignments are due, discussions catch fire. Topics? Love, death, emotions, other people, fashions, and of course, the opposite sex.

It's Showtime!

CAB Spotlight, presented during Homecoming Weekend, involved a variety of student skits and acts as well as Chip Franklin's comedy show. The crowd was large and they really enjoyed the show. It was fun for most of us to see friends on the stage showing us their talents. Homecoming visitors enjoyed the show — what a change of pace! Sally Rennie, director, Jessica Banks, student director, and Tony Cundari worked the hardest at putting the Spotlight together. CAB really works!

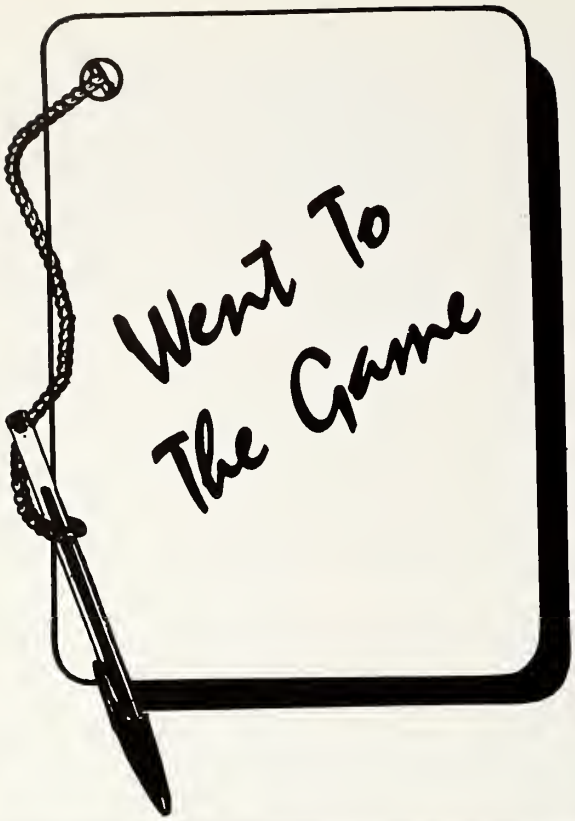
2. Andy Collver shows us the difference between a sphere and a ball.
3. "Good Fairy", Todd Stephens, at Open Stage.
4. Open Stage comedian, Chip Franklin, checking out the audience with his "3-d" glasses.
5. Edward Jackman doing his famous bicycle balancing act.
6. John Owens, Brett Miller (a.k.a. Phil Collins), Bryan Tate, and Rudy Banuelos performing at Open Stage.



Going to the game provided every Mac fan with plenty of fun and excitement in fall, 1985. Among the favorites: The Lady Highlanders in volleyball who finished 16-9; football's Fighting Highlanders, who completed the season with an overall record of 6-5; and the soccer team, which ended with a fine record of 10-7-2. The Highland Dance Squad had some good moves of their own as they entertained halftime crowds with their latest choreography.

Parent's Weekend included a wide variety of events. Proud parents could watch their student sing in the choir concert or perhaps watch the nurse's capping, a tradition at Mac. The Holy Fools presented a worship service, showing off the wonderful talents of making a person happy or chasing the blues away. Parent's Weekend gave students a chance to show mom and dad what goes on at Mac, and also gave the family a chance to talk with the student's teachers and advisors.

Homecoming Highlights

Homecoming '85 brought together alumni, students, faculty and friends for a fun-filled weekend. The parade kicked off the big day, which included the Highlanders in action in both soccer and football. The Morton Highlanders bagpipe band from Peoria supplied some of the music for the campus festivities.

7

1. Michalson House won the parade float contest with this colorful entry.
2. Halftime entertainment at the soccer game was provided by the Morton Highlanders bagpipe band from the Peoria area.
3. Freshman attendant Cheri Brown (not pictured: Lee Dixon).
4. Sophomore attendants Grady Gilkey and Amy Riley.
5. Ron Jenkins and Dee Roper were the junior attendants.
6. Senior attendants were Tom Wojcik and Chris Honey.
7. Bruce Logsdon was chosen king and Belinda Heintz reigned as queen of the Homecoming court.

Homecoming! The action and excitement of the games, the people, the parade... even the teachers enjoyed and participated. Parents also participated by cheering on their son or daughter during one of the many games played throughout the "holiday". Although the football team lost, the victory of the Lady Highlanders lifted the campus spirit.

1. Adrian Andrade stands up to his opponent.
2. Dr. Mitchell Beck sits back to watch the game.
3. Vicki Kelly displays a strong forehand.
4. Coach Cooper talks seriously to his team.
5. A bagpiper enjoys the homecoming festivities.
6. Andy Collver makes a miracle catch that set up the last touchdown.
7. Hawaiian night attracts a spirited crowd to cheer on the Lady Highlanders.

Mac students show 'frightful' side in celebrating Halloween

2

1. The costume capers drew a smile from Melissa Arbeiter and Edie Simpson.

2. "Fright Night" at the Jaycees' Haunted House masked the true intentions of this Mac group, none of whom seemed willing to reveal their true identity.

3. Not to be mistaken for a room in Norris, this scene from the Haunted House pointed up the fact that a few Mac students lost their head over the Halloween revelry. The happy couple shown here were last reported seen packing up their chainsaws and heading down campus.

4

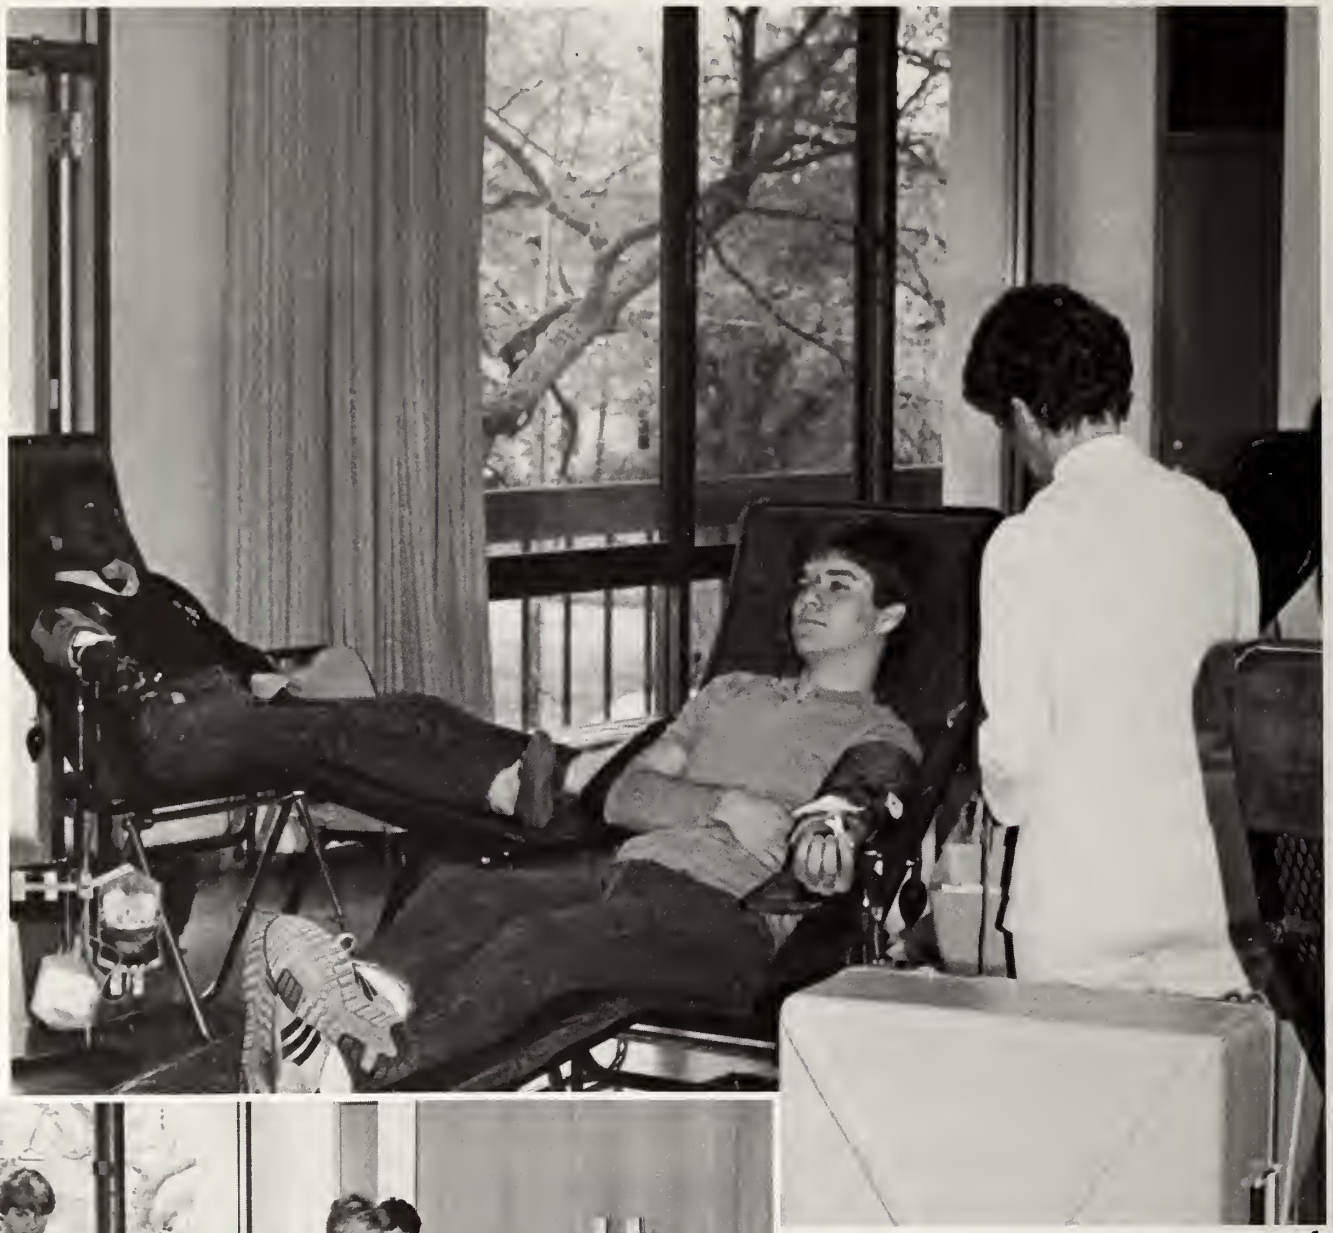
1. Good buddies Les Slunecka (a.k.a. Peewee Herman) and Alex Galvez plot their next move.

2. Melissa Arbeiter and Teresa Hopkins were said to be looking for a "best legs" contest.

3. Ah, you just can't beat having fun at the 'old haunted castle. David Holder and "Mouse" James get in a few rounds on the dance floor before sunrise.

4. Sales of Miller Beer reportedly plummeted after these "Lite" impersonators crashed the Michalson Halloween party. The six-pack included Vicky Houser, Missy Johnson, Stephanie Freeman, Amy Riley, Lisa Shaw and Tammy Freeman.

Blood donors show they care



1

2

1. Showing the look of a veteran donor, Mark Doro appears almost relaxed as he provides a pint during the annual Blood Drive.

2. Obviously confused, Mike Kervin learns that the fluid flowing from his arm closely resembles decaffeinated coffee. He reportedly passed up a subsequent offer from Maxwell House and signed instead with Folger's. Red Cross nurses said they planned to screen members of the Student Life staff much closer before tapping a vein.

Christmas At Mac Celebrated With Music

It wouldn't be Christmas without the Madrigal Singers, and once again the popular ensemble treated holiday crowds in McClelland hall to a series of musical programs. The 1985 cast included (front) Kim Stonehouse, Deanna Roper, Lisa Templeton, Missy Johnson, Becky Reese, Kim Hawkins, Amy Riley and Terese Walker; (Standing) Ron Jenkins, Frank Popernik, Chad Fornoff, Jerry Jagodzinski, Scott Owens, David Williams, Thad Pendleton and Mark Doro. Dr. Richard Hanson once again served as director of the Madrigal ensemble. Pictured at right are Deanna Roper, Lisa Templeton and Missy Johnson. The photo was taken in Springfield at a taping of the Madrigal performance in the studios of WICS-TV.

Madrigals Brighten Holiday Season

For the 19th consecutive year, MacMurray's Madrigal Singers added a special dimension to the campus celebration of the holiday season. Included among the troupe's 16 voices were Scott Owens and David Williams (top photo) and (at left) Kim Hawkins and Amy Riley. Colorful costumes and stylish singing have been primary ingredients of the success enjoyed by the Madrigal ensemble over the years.

Swimmers Enjoy Life in the Fast Lane

1. No one could accuse Mac's 1985-86 swim team of not having a good time, both in the water as well as on land. Season Review

Lack of depth didn't prevent the Mac swim team from posting some top-level individual accomplishments in 1985-86. The foursome of junior Heather Price, sophomores Elizabeth Kvale and Karen Jennings, and freshman Diana Thomas sparked the women's swim team to three dual meet wins.

At the PCC championships, the Lady Highlanders claimed second place, well ahead of Blackburn and Eureka. The top achiever was Price with a first in the 100 back. On the men's side, Carl Foster finished third in both the 1 — and 3 — meter dive.

The Mac women finished 3-1 in duals while the men dropped their only dual. In coed action, the team wound up 1-2 under new head coach Ray Fredericks.

1. Scrappy Stephanie Freemon (shown grabbing a loose ball) was a big factor in the court resurgence of the Lady Highlanders.
2. Jody Loop fends off the defensive efforts of a Blackburn player and maintains ball control.
3. Kristy Adkison eyes the bucket as she powers her way toward the hoop.
4. Freemon (12), a freshman from Shelbyville, teamed with running-mate Kris Darr to give MacMurray a solid pair at the guard spot.
5. Kathy Miller brought leadership qualities and excellent skill to the Mac lineup. Her 18-point average led the team in scoring.
6. 1985-86 MacMURRAY LADY HIGHLANDERS Front — Kris Darr, Chris Honey, Stephanie Freemon and Karen Kovacevich. Rear — Cary Straka, Gail Hajost, Kathy Miller, Kristy Adkison, Jody Loop and Head Coach Karen Sweitzer.

1. Eric Watson's homerun trot wouldn't be complete without this Don Timm handshake.
2. Greg Killion topped the club with a 3.75 ERA en route to a 7-3 record.
3a. Jeff Cole can't hold up in time as he misses a high hard one.
3b. Ron Lindsay, who hit .360, tops this infield grounder.
4. It isn't even close as Tom Reynolds beats the throw to third.
5. Phil Hudson (5) trots home as a wild pitch eludes the IC catcher.
6. Craig Rogers (19) steps in ahead of the toss at first in a PCC game with Maryville.

Yearbook Staff

The intrepid staff of Mac's yearbook found 1985-86 to be a trying year as the Tartan moved through what will no doubt be looked back upon as a transition period for the annual. The major change involved subscriptions sales — and thanks are certainly due to all of the trusting (and patient) souls who gave us the faith and confidence we needed by purchasing a copy of the 1986 book. Our collective hope is that you enjoy this latest version of the Tartan, and that you continue to show your interest in the yearbook effort.

Organizations: A Final Look

1. Everyone gets into the act at Mac, including SOS helper Teresa Hornbeck, pictured during the move-in days of early fall.

2. The slopes were good to the Euromacs, who sport appropriate facial expressions for the photographer.

3. And finally, fans could always count on Mac's Highland Dance Squad to make their presence felt at home football games — even if it meant having their backs to the crowd.

1. Commencement exercises at Mac added a new tune in 1986, thanks to the musical talents of Ken Bradbury, shown here with bagpipes in hand as he led the procession of graduates from the library to the chapel. The ceremonial touch was added in light of MacMurray's Scottish traditions.
2. The smiles tell the story as degree-recipients Susan Williams, Jennifer Haffner and Sherry Strowmatt celebrate the accomplishment of completing four years at Mac. Each received the Bachelor's Degree in Nursing.
3. Dr. and Mrs. Richard McGuire (center) share a moment of conversation following commencement exercises with Nanette Fabray and Dr. Robert Seufert.
4. A calm and cool Jeanne Harris tells the photographer to get lost so that she can study the commencement speech that she's about to deliver to her fellow students.

Mac Grads Go Out In Style

The highlights were numerous May 17-18 when the College closed out the 1985-86 academic year with a flourish of activities involving graduates, their families, alumni, faculty and staff, and many friends.

Diplomas were presented to 106 seniors at the commencement service, and the capacity crowd looked on as honorary degrees were conferred on five distinguished recipients.

Prior to Sunday's main event, a considerable number of honors were handed out Saturday evening, May 17, to outstanding members of the Class of 1986. The occasion was the annual Senior Honors Banquet in McClelland Hall.

As the focus of attention moved once again to the Chapel for Sunday's activities, a new feature added itself to the commencement day lineup. This latest development came in the form of bagpiper Ken Bradbury whose musical talents reflected the link between MacMurray and its Scottish tradition. Following Bradbury from the library to the chapel was the column of cap-and-gown graduates, accompanied by faculty and the honorary degree recipients.

Recipients of honorary degrees were:

* Dr. Helen G. Edmonds of Durham, N.C., who was presented a Doctor of Public Service degree. Education has been this woman's life work, and her five decades of service to others has been enhanced to an even greater extent by her extensive volunteer work in government.
* Dr. Louis Fernandez, former chairman of the board of the Monsanto Co., was recognized for his industry-wide efforts to effect a positive change toward hazardous waste and proper clean-up methods.
* Nanette Fabray MacDougall, well-known star of stage and screen, was recognized with a Doctor of Humanities degree for her work on behalf of the hearing impaired.
* Esther Becker Simplot '56 of Boise, Idaho, earned special recognition in tribute to her work in the musical performance field and also as a leading patron of the arts in the Pacific Northwest. She is an accomplished operatic soloist.
* The honorary Doctor of Humane Letters degree was conferred upon Fred Rogers in acknowledgement of his efforts to improve the quality of childrens' television programming.

5. Nancy Jo Lovekamp was among the 14 nursing graduates who received their nurse's pin during formal ceremonies the day prior to commencement. Dr. Alice Williams, director of Mac's Nursing Program, does the honors.
6. Attentive looks are worn on the faces of this threesome as they listen to remarks from the podium. Shown here are Dr. J. Michael Jones (left), Nanette Fabray and Dr. Philip Decker.
7. Nearly every seat in Annie Merner Chapel was filled for the commencement exercises as family, friends and classmates sought a good vantage point to view the Class of 1986 exit Mac in grand style.

The Beginning Of The Real World

1. It's "A-OK" for Nanette Fabray as she explains what it's like to receive an honorary degree from MacMurray. At her right is Fred Rogers, the TV personality who delivered the commencement address and also received an honorary doctorate.
2. The style that has won the hearts of millions of youngsters over the past 15 years was in evidence on campus when Fred Rogers brought his popular "Mister Rogers' Neighborhood" to MacMurray for a community program. The large crowd shown here reflects how well the distinguished visitor was received.
3. Esther Simplot '56 reacts with emotion as she is conferred an honorary doctorate by Dr. B.G. Stephens. Dr. E.C. Bone of the Board of Trustees is also shown.
4. Julie Cline, a nursing major from Virginia, Ill., was voted by her classmates as the recipient of the Lady of the Lamp Award. The presentation came during the Nurses' Pinning Ceremony.

5. A smiling Fred Rogers exits from Annie Merner Chapel alongside Dr. Stephens. With his acceptance of the honorary degree, TV's Mister Rogers added his name to the rolls as a member of the Class of '86.
6. Dave Barbknecht and Lisa Grider (foreground) are pictured among the 106 seniors who took part in the commencement program.
7. Dr. Edward J. Mitchell, MacMurray's incoming president, takes in a word or two of friendly advice from Dr. Helen G. Edmonds (right), the distinguished educator who was among the honorary degree recipients at the commencement service. Shown between the two is Mrs. Anna Julian of Chicago, a member of the college's board of trustees.
8. The Rev. and Mrs. Archie Criglar of Jacksonville were among the happy couples celebrating after graduation. Archie, an honors graduate, had a principal role in the morning Baccalaureate Service. He is headed to Garrett-Evangelical Theological Seminary in Evanston on a full scholarship to complete a Master's of Divinity Program.

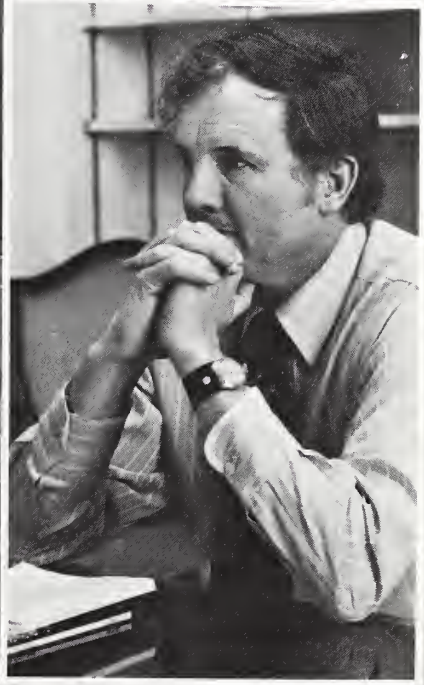
Stephens Bids Farewell To Mac



A brief, six-year period unlike any era in MacMurray's 140-year history ended in 1986 when Dr. B.G. Stephens stepped down as president to return to his native South Carolina. The man who, among other things, brought gifted children and football players to MacMurray will be remembered for the warm and personable style that marked his tenure as chief executive. Given the time and opportunity to fully implement the concepts and programs Stephens initiated, MacMurray is certain to celebrate its 150th anniversary in 1996 amid renewed spirit and determination. At a farewell reception given by faculty and staff, the departing First Family show off the sterling silver platter, rocker and Mac blanket they received as gifts. The Stephenses are making their home in Spartanburg, S.C., where the former MacMurray president is on the administrative staff at Wofford College.

We owe a great deal of thanks to the 200 true-believers who had enough faith in the yearbook staff during this trying year to put down $20 and purchase a copy. For providing the inspiration that pushed us to complete this edition, we pay you the highest compliment we know — The 1986 MacMurray Tartan is dedicated to you, our first subscribers.

Thanks for believing in us.
